Work-Based Criteria

Our work-based, school-to-work opportunities...

individualize career development by:

- Ensuring that learners know about themselves and can share information, including helpful accommodations and support needs, with employers.
- Including a jointly developed, individualized plan (learner, family, school, employer) with measurable learner outcomes for each work-based learning opportunity.
- Providing work-based learning opportunities based on individual learner interests and career goals.
- Including follow-up, follow-along evaluations involving employers, learners, and others.
- Integrating and linking work-based learning activities with past, present and future learning (e.g. academic, vocational, career guidance).

include business/industry-based training by:

- Offering a variety of career awareness and career exploration opportunities at community work places.
- Providing learners with information about and experiences in all aspects of an industry, including career paths/clusters, business structures, and industry specific occupations.
- Ensuring workplace compliance with federally mandated protections

How well is your School-to-Work partnership meeting the needs of ALL learners? All learners, according to the School-to-Work Opportunities Act of 1994, include the following:

- Disadvantaged learners
- Learners with diverse racial, ethnic, or cultural backgrounds
- Learners with disabilities
- Learners with limited English proficiency
